

How to make a bun

Gather hair into a smooth ponytail, using a sturdy, covered elastic band. Use water or hair gel to smooth hair down.

Twist ponytail lightly into a rope shape.

Coil the hair around the elastic band into a bun in the same direction the rope is twisted. Hold the bun and cover it with a hair net so that the elastic pulls underneath. Wrap the extra net around and underneath the bun. Allow the covered bun to slightly relax so that the bun lies flat against the head. If it looks like a doorknob, it is coiled too tightly. Just unwind the bun slightly (just a quarter turn) and smooth the bun to the crown. Pin the bun in place securely using sturdy hairpins (sample hairpin shown at right).
